WELCOME MESSAGE

Dear Sponsors and Exhibitors,

The RADIation Effects on Components and Systems (RADECS) Conference is an annual European (and, more generally, international) scientific and industrial forum on radiation and its effect on electronics and photonic materials, devices and systems. Every year it attracts hundreds of scientists and engineers from all over the world, becoming the perfect showcase for the most advanced and successful space and high-reliability electronics companies, as well as for radiation effects facilities and research groups.

The 2024 edition will be held on 16-20 September at the ExpoMeloneras Conference Centre in the charming setting of Maspalomas, Gran Canaria Island (Canary Islands, Spain). Cutting-edge research on the effects of the space, terrestrial, and artificial radiation environments on electronic devices will be presented by world-leading experts in a friendly atmosphere, together with the most recent radiation data, collected on components of high interest for the space community. We are sure that this very special location, at the geographical and historical crossroad between Europe and the Americas, and having played a decisive role in the Age of Exploration (XV-XVII centuries), comparable in some ways to the space era we find ourselves in today, will provide an ideal environment for exhibitors and sponsors to boost their visibility and business.

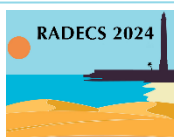

An Industrial Exhibition will take place from Tuesday September 17 to Thursday September 20. An industrial exhibit reception on Tuesday evening 17 will be open to all attendees.

RADECS 2024 is organized by INTA, ESA and CERN, on behalf of the RADECS Association. It is technically co-sponsored by the IEEE-NPSS.

We look forward to seeing you in Maspalomas for RADECS 2024!

Maite Álvarez and Rubén García

RADECS 2024 General Chair

TARGET AUDIENCE

More than 500 attendees, coming from industry, government agencies, laboratories and universities from all over the globe, are expected. Researchers and engineers working on radiation effects on electronics for space and high-reliability terrestrial application are welcomed!

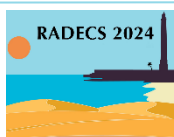

RADECS is the number 1 event for radiation technology offering the possibility of:

- Strengthening your bond with existing customers and meet future customers!
- Launching new products!
- Receiving Technical Session registration for Exhibitor
- Submitting an abstract to present your company's technology and products

TOPICS

The RADECS 2024 Conference is soliciting papers describing significant new findings or developments in the following areas:

- SEE mechanisms and modelling,
- SEE in devices & ICs,
- Basic mechanisms,
- Radiation effects in devices & ICs,
- Radiation environments,
- Dosimetry & facilities,
- Radiation hardening techniques,
- Photonics, optoelectronics and sensors,
- Radiation hardness assurance,
- Radiation effects in complex devices & systems,
- Data workshop.

SCHEDULE AND PROGRAM

The schedule is organized in the following form:

- Abstract submission deadline: April 2024.
- Authors Notification: May/June 2024.
- Late news submission deadline: June 2024.
- Final technical program: July 2024.

At the final schedule invited talks, Women in engineering section and other social events as football tournament will be included.

CONFERENCE LOCATION: MASPALOMAS, GRAN CANARIA

The conferences will take place in Maspalomas, in the south of the Gran Canaria Island. Enjoying very agreeable weather all year round, with maximum and minimum temperatures of 27°C/80°F and 21°C/70°F, respectively. During September, the weather can only be described as summery and with no important rains even though it's heading towards autumn, making it possible to organise open-air events. Furthermore, the island offers "Las Dunas de Maspalomas" at the southernmost shore and the cliffs of the west coast.

Around the 50% of the Gran Canaria Island is declared an UNESCO Biosphere Reserve. The huge diversity of its landscapes rename the island as "a continent in miniature". All its natural attractions and more pull almost 4 million tourists to visit the place every year. But it isn't only nature, Gran Canary stands as a strategic place to observe the universe and see the stars. Roque Saucillo and Las Temisas raises are two important astronomic observatories located there. Besides this, the university Las Palmas de Gran Canaria hosts the "Banco Español de Algas", which focuses on the isolation, identification, characterization conservation and supply of microalgae and cyanobacteria.

How to get there?

The Gran Canaria Island has excellent air connections. Direct flights are available from London, Paris, Amsterdam, Madrid, Frankfurt, Barcelona, Zurich, Rome, Vienna US/Canada and many other! Just two hours from the mainland and four hours from anywhere in Europe. The international airport is located just 20 minutes away from the city and 25 minutes away from the holiday resorts that are very close to the conference centre. If you want to make a visit outside the Conference Centre to some specific place of the Island, renting a car is a recommended option.

CONFERENCE CENTRE

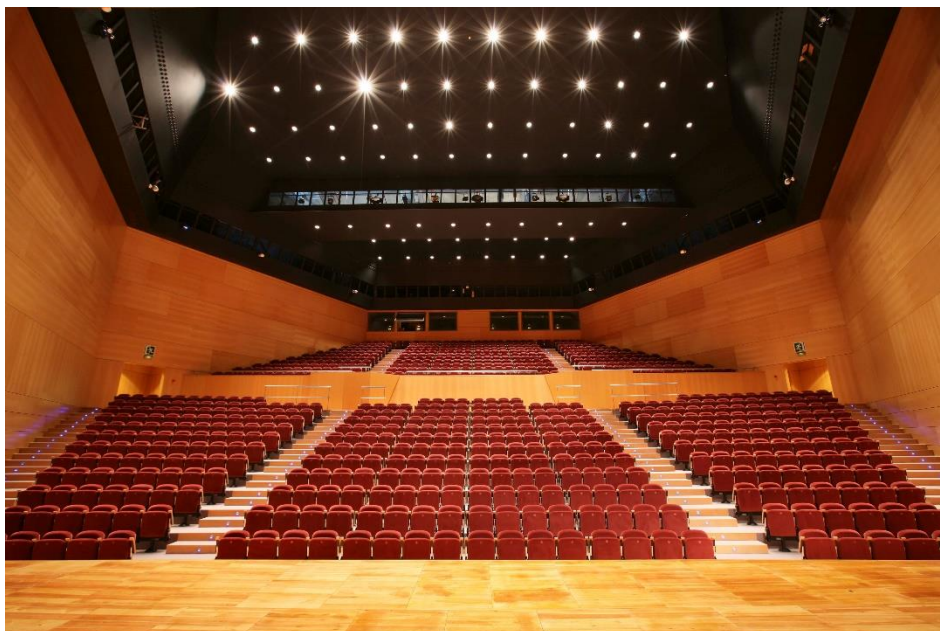

RADECS 2024 will take place at the ExpoMeloneras Conference Centre, an impressive, versatile architecture convention centre covering an area of 14,000 square metres surrounded by a fascinating landscape of ravines and protected areas, and just seven hundred metres from the golden-sand beach of Maspalomas. Additionally, there will be three meeting rooms available that can host up to 20 people each one to be used by any registered conference attendee on a first come, first served basis.

The ExpoMeloneras Conference Centre is located close to a wide range of hotels, many of which are within walking distance.

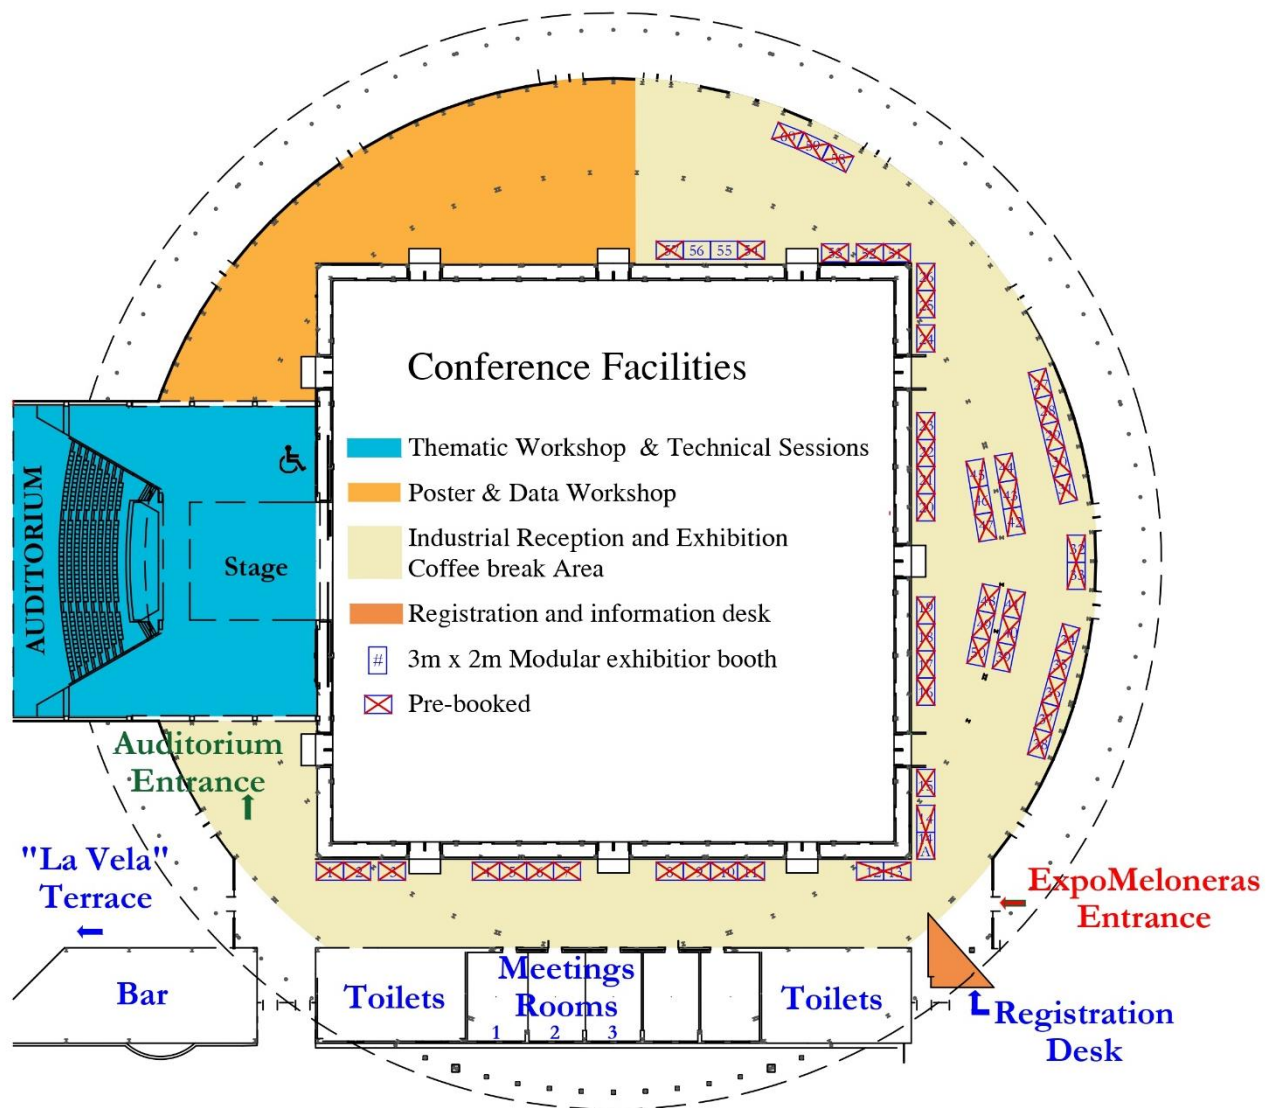

Thematic workshop and technical sessions will be held at “Los Tirajanas” auditorium. The auditorium has a capacity of up to 800 seats in the form of a Roman theatre, guarantees a perfect view of the stage from anywhere in the amphitheater.

FLOOR PLAN

The Conference Facilities have the following features:

- A Cristalarium with space for 100 posters and more than 60 booths.
- Three meeting rooms with capacity up to 20 people.
- Bar and terrace.

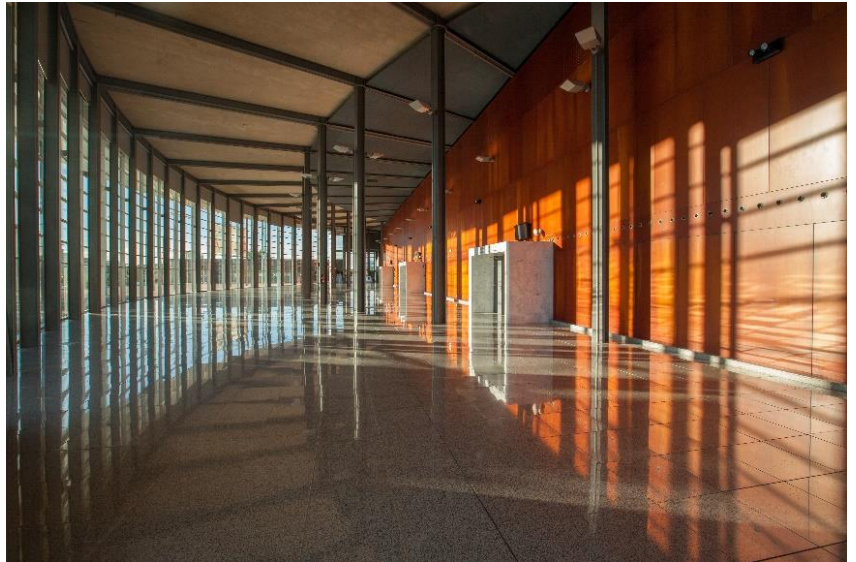

EXHIBITION AREA

The industrial Exhibition will be at the Cristalarium, a lobby around the great Maspalomas Hall covering an area of 4,000 square metres. Coffee breaks will be served in the same area guaranteeing the maximum visibility for all exhibitors.

By exhibiting at RADECS 2024, companies will benefit from extensive exposure to our international, focused attendance interested in industry innovations. Exhibit booths will be placed on the ground floor with coffee breaks that will be served in the exhibition area every day with a Tuesday evening Exhibit Reception. Posters and Data Workshop will also be displayed near the Exhibits.

All attendees have to go through the Exhibition area to go to the auditorium and to see posters and data workshop, maximizing the traffic flow to all areas of the exhibition.

Exhibition hours are tentatively set for

- Your booth will be ready from 3:00 pm on Monday September 16, and the set-up must be completed by 6:00 pm.
- Industrial exhibition will start on Tuesday September 17, at 8:00 am and end on Thursday September 19 at 4:00 pm.
- Dismantling will start from 4:00 pm on Thursday September 19.

Rates include the following set-up

- Back and side panels
- Basic electricity (a plug for your notebook)
- Chairs and tables
- Trash can
- WiFi
- Company Name Sign
